

Prayer Shawls have been used for Centuries

"Prayer Shawls have been used for centuries as a universal symbol, embracing the receiver with unconditional love. They wrap, enfold, hug, cover and give comfort symbolic of a mother's love.

Those who have received these Healing Silk shawls have been spiritually lifted, as if given wings to fly above their troubles..." Diana Wesley Life's transitions can be eased through the use of Healing Silk Shawls. Wear, touch or look at the Healing Silks Shawls while undergoing medical procedures and recovery from an illness. Wrap the Healing Silk Shawl around you when needing to be enfolded in comfort after a loss or during bereavement. Form your own sacred space during prayer or meditation. You can gift a Healing Silk Shawl to symbolize commitment in marriage ceremonies, a bridal shower gift, the joy of birthing and nursing a baby. They are beautiful accessories in and of themselves. Wear them for pure joy and delight.

Whenever you wish to express your compassion and caring, you can minister to others by gifting a Healing Silk Shawl. Personalize your gift through prayers and blessings. A group may hold a circle of prayer and support, pouring their blessings upon the shawl and gifting it to an individual. The shawl will be a reminder of your love and support. When the one receiving the shawl cannot be present, write notes or cards with your personal blessings to accompany the shawl.

The shawl you receive has been created with care and love. Diana Wesley begins each new design with prayers for all who will receive the scarves. Loving intentions continue throughout the creation of the shawl. When the Healing Silks are received from the manufacturer, they are carefully examined and blessed. A final blessing is offered before the shawl is sent to its new home.

This care and love, combined into prayerful blessings, reaches out to touch those in need of comfort and solace, and increases the joy of those who are in happier circumstances.

The love and blessings within the silk continue to increase when some people purchase one or more silks to pass to an unknown person in need through the Healing Silks Click It Forward campaign. These blessed donations are sent to hospitals or other care facilities to give support to someone who otherwise would not have it.

The blessings of Healing Silks ripple outward from person to person, with both the giver and receiver feeling the embrace of unconditional love.